

Swipe Write Profile Review

Hello Matt,

Thank you for sharing your dating profile with us! We've carefully reviewed it based on the following factors, and we've provided feedback and suggestions for improvement. Let's dive in!

Profile Photos 📷

- Quality: It is evident from your profile that you have put a great deal of effort into taking these shots. However, the images appear to be quite blurry and lack clarity. In some pictures, the proportions are off and certain images lack symmetry. With some adjustments to the camera settings and lighting, you could achieve a sharper, more detailed image. Additionally, taking the photo in better lighting conditions or using a tripod could help to stabilize the image and reduce blur.
- Variety: A variety of images would be good, but you would gain more reach if you uploaded photos that show who you are as a person. Adding new pictures and experimenting with different styles and themes will allow your profile to grow over time.
- First Impression: Making a good first impression is crucial when it comes to dating. Your photos need a lot of work in making sure you leave a good first impression. You can ditch the shirtless picture and replace it with something more fun. I'm sure you'll have better pictures from your time on the road.
- Improvement Tips 💡 :
Consider including elements that demonstrate your interests or hobbies in the picture, or simply choose a photo that shows your unique personality. Positioning your head at a slight angle or adopting a three-quarter pose can enhance your facial characteristics and produce a more appealing appearance. Opting for a plain and uncluttered backdrop can ensure that all attention remains on your presence. Most importantly, wearing a smile while clicking pictures can make your profile pictures look more authentic and welcoming.

Bio Content 📝

- Writing Style: The sarcastic way of communicating who you are as a person ('darkly humorous') makes your profile stand out from the rest of the lot. However, you can also incorporate more captivating phrases to draw the attention of potential matches. People are more likely to be engaged when they have a 'call to action'. Adding a prompt in your bio can be an effective way to interact with potential connections and make the first move.
- Personality: Your bio showcases a balanced mix of favorable and unfavorable characteristics. It effectively represents your personality, highlighting your intelligence, wit, and remarkable sense of humor. Nonetheless, incorporating eye-catching words can further captivate the attention of potential matches. Rather than saying "looking to expand my travel portfolio" you can write something like "Seeking a travel companion to explore new horizons and add stamps to my passport."
- Interests: Your bio provides a clear insight into your personality and qualities, yet it falls short of revealing your areas of interest. Currently, your interests only encompass your adventurous side, while your humorous traits remain disconnected from any specific interest. As a result, your profile may seem limited to potential matches. Expanding on your likes and dislikes can help broaden your scope and appeal to a wider audience.
- Improvement Tips 💡 :
Our recommendation is to utilize our Bio generator tool to craft a stylish and distinctive bio for your profile. This can increase your chances of attracting more potential matches. Avoid usage of words like 'boi' since it doesn't across as genuine.

Profile Completeness 📋

- Detail: The profile appears to be well-rounded and informative, covering a satisfactory amount of aspects.
- Balance: The profile successfully strikes a balance between showcasing your personality and your interests. However, providing a more detailed description of your interests can further capture the attention of potential matches.
- Prompts/Questions: While your profile appears complete and well-organized with responses to most sections, it may not pique the curiosity of potential matches to know more about you or raise questions for further exploration. Try answering a few prompts that Tinder allows you to include in your profile. This is one way to showcase your witty side.

- Improvement Tips 💡 :
You have done an exceptional job of bringing all aspects together in your profile. To make it even more engaging, consider incorporating rhetorical or probing questions to spark curiosity and interest in potential matches.

Uniqueness & Authenticity ✨

- Standout Features: The most distinctive aspect of your profile is how you have seamlessly blended your dark and positive sides by labeling yourself as both witty and humorously dark. Additionally, your diverse and lively taste in music is another standout feature of your profile, providing insight into your musical interests.
- Authenticity: The profile appears to be genuine and authentic, as evidenced by the pictures. However, it may lack a certain spark, appearing more unrefined than polished.
- Improvement Tips 💡 :
Incorporating your clever wit into your profile is an excellent approach to differentiate yourself and convey your intentions, whether it be your objective for being on the app or what you seek in a potential match. Additionally, showcasing your travel experiences can also be a compelling aspect to highlight in your profile.

Grammar, Spelling & Punctuation 📖

- Accuracy: Your profile impressively showcases your mastery of the English language. While your attempt to provide insight into your personality is noteworthy, the information presented may not be sufficient for a potential match to swipe right on your profile.
- Readability: The profile appears to be easily digestible and well-received by potential matches, with the language and grammar used being concise and effective. However, incorporating exclamation points can inject more excitement and intrigue into the profile, making it more captivating and appealing.
- Improvement Tips 💡 :
Our suggestion is to incorporate more emotion-based language into your profile, expressing your interest in potential matches. This can enhance the reach of your profile, as it will come across as more engaging and personal, rather than solely relying on dry, logical language.

Overall, your photos are great and show off your sense of adventure and fun. However, we would suggest adding a few more photos that showcase your personality and interests. For example, you might add a photo of you enjoying country music or of your riding a motorcycle

(dirt cycling). In terms of your bio, we think you've done a good job of highlighting your positive qualities, such as your sense of humor and love of travel. However, we think you could be a bit more specific about your interests and what you're looking for in a partner. Perhaps you could mention a favorite book or movie, or describe the kind of person you're hoping to meet.

With some adjustments and enhancements, we're confident your profile will shine even brighter! Remember, your dating profile is an evolving work in progress, so keep experimenting and refining it until you find the perfect balance that represents the amazing person you are.

Good luck, and happy swiping! 🚀

Best regards,
